

EXPERIMENT 1: Basic Linux Commands

1.1 General Purpose Commands:

Aim:

The 'date' command: The date command displays the current date with the day of week, month, day, time (24 hours format) and year.

Syntax: $date

The date command can also be used in the following format.

Format	Purpose	Example
+ %m	To display only month	$ date + %m
+ %h	To display month name	$ date + %h
+ %d	To display day of month	$ date + %d
+ %y	To display last two digits of the year	$ date + %y
+ %H	To display Hours	$ date + %H
+ %M	To display Minutes	$ date + %M
+ %S	To display Seconds	$ date + %S

Program:

```
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ date
Monday 30 March 2026 08:29:04 AM IST
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ echo Hello
Hello
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ date +%S
12
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ date +%d
30
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ date +%h
Mar
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ date +%d
30
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ cal December 2025
      December 2025
Su Mo Tu We Th Fr Sa
    1  2  3  4  5  6
  7  8  9 10 11 12 13
14 15 16 17 18 19 20
21 22 23 24 25 26 27
28 29 30 31
```

```
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ pwd
/home/abhijith
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ mkdir abhi
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ rmdir abhi
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ ls
Desktop  Downloads  Music      Public  Templates
Documents hello      Pictures   scripts Videos
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ cd hello
[abhijith@abhijith hello]$ ls
abcd.txt
[abhijith@abhijith hello]$
```

```
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ ls; date; who
Desktop  Downloads  Music      Public  Templates
Documents hello      Pictures   scripts Videos
Monday 30 March 2026 08:34:31 AM IST
abhijith seat0      2026-03-30 08:26 (login screen)
abhijith tty2       2026-03-30 08:26 (tty2)
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ cd .. && ls
abhijith
[abhijith@abhijith home]$ who || date
abhijith seat0      2026-03-30 08:26 (login screen)
abhijith tty2       2026-03-30 08:26 (tty2)
[abhijith@abhijith home]$
```

```
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ uname
Linux
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ uname -n
abhijith
[abhijith@abhijith ~]$ █
```

Result:

Thus the program to execute basic linux commands has been executed successfully.